WPJF News

Things have been pretty quiet over the summer at Wrexham Peace & Justice Forum, although we haven't been completely idle!

Some members have been following up the issue of weapons of mass destruction on display in the town centre for army recruitment exercises. This work is ongoing.

Quite a lot of work has been done to prepare for and promote the performance by Trio Naatyashwora from Nepal on 23 October. We hope to see you there.

Some of us have found ourselves helping to develop the embryonic Transition Town initiative in Wrexham - finding practical ways to live together sustainably in peace and justice.

Please join us and support our work in whatever ways you can.

Live Salsa at Theatr Clwyd

A sizzling hot salsa band is returning to Theatr Clwyd, Mold, on the evening of Saturday 4 October to raise much-needed cash for development work in Latin America.

Salsa pa' Gozar is a five-piece group formed in late 1994 by timbale player Ricardo Parmigiani. All the band members have strong connections with Latin America, having either grown up there or visited the continent for extended periods to learn about the music, culture and language. Their last visit to Mold in May 2007 proved a huge success, raising hundreds of pounds for charity.

The band aims to capture the true essence of a live Salsa performance. Its unique style of music ranges from Samba to Salsa, and is guaranteed to get your feet moving. Its horn section has amazing strength and a driving rhythm comprising piano, bass, congas, bongos and timbales.

Salsa pa' Gozar regularly plays to capacity audiences at venues such as Band on the Wall in Manchester and Casa Latina in Leeds. It has appeared in the Streets Ahead Festival, Mardi Gras, and Manchester's Day of Salsa. The band's wide repertoire ranges from pure Salsa for dancers to traditional Cuban music, including various hits by the Buena Vista Social Club. The band can play all Latin styles of music, from Bomba, Plena and Guajira to Son, Cha-Cha and Bolero. In addition to regular favourites like Guantanamera, La Bamba and Oye Como Va, Salsa pa' Gozar plays songs of the Gipsy Kings such as Bamboleo and Volare.

The event starts at 8 pm, and a licensed bar will be available. Tickets cost only £10 each (£8 concessions). For further details and ticket reservations, please call 01352 740642 or 01244 538583.
